The Leader has won the award the last two years in succession. She is currently enroute to the Western Pacific and will join the Seventh Fleet in Operation "Market Time" off the coast of South Vietnam.

Operation "Market Time" is designed to stop the flow of enemy men and supplies into South Vietnam by water.

Teen Mothers Forget Babies Need Affection

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some teen-age mothers forget babies need affection, comments a baby nurse. She has noticed that many of these young girls still act like children themselves.

"In their eagerness for love and affection, they are denying it to their own little ones," she explains. "And they don't want their mothers to tell them anything, although they are not beyond taking a job and pushing baby off on mother."

A baby's early months are important, she says. If baby is happy, it will be easy to rear.

A young mother need not bring a child up as if it were a Dresden doll. But cleanliness is important.

Babies need lots of affection and shouldn't be propped up in a crib to be bottle-fed. Holding them gives them security.

Baby should be trained to go to sleep after the last bottle. Simply turn out the light and walk away—after awhile he'll get the message.

Mothers should not put a lot of toys in a crib to keep babies quiet. A crib must be a place to sleep, not a play place. One tiny stuffed toy in the crib is conducive to sleep.

If baby is put outdoors in a carriage, check on him frequently. There are no more uncomfortable beings than babies who are left in the bright sunshine (because mothers think it is good for them) or put under trees where insects can make a meal of them or are so overdressed that they can scarcely breathe.

Viet Dam To Aid Refugees

The Trieu Phuoc Dam in Trieu Phong Province of South Vietnam is nearing completion.

When finished, the dam, constructed by the Vietnamese and sponsored by the civil operations and revolutionary development support, will serve 30,000 persons in the district, including 13,000 refugees living in Cam

Lo village.

Realizing the benefit they will derive from a supply of fresh water, Vietnamese women joined the men in the massive effort to complete the dam as well as irrigation ditches bringing water from the Cua Viet River to 250 acres of rice fields.

PADDLING THEIR OWN CANOE, a fisherman and his family pass through the nearly completed Trieu Phuoc Dam. The dam, constructed by Vietnamese labor, will separate the fresh water of the Cua Viet River from the salty Gulf of Tonkin, providing fresh water to 30,000 persons in the district.

Down Under Jobs Hard To Find

SYDNEY (AP) — More Americans are migrating to Australia, but, says the American Chamber of Commerce in Australia, most of the college graduates have trouble finding suitable jobs.

"Commerce," the journal of the Chamber, noted in an editorial that 3,600 Americans migrated to Australia in the second half of 1967, which in numbers puts them only behind British, Germans, Greeks, Italians and Yugoslavians.

Over a year, the editorial said, the chamber receives some 900 inquiries from Americans who want to live in Australia. Reasons, it said, differ but among them are:

"Australia is one of the last great outposts still offering developmental possibilities.

"Stability.

"Refuge from racial conflicts.

"Absence of social conflicts.

"Violence, low crime rate.

"More leisurely pace of life.

"Mining boom."

Stating that the caliber of the would-be American migrant was unusually high, the editorial said: "The overwhelming percentage of inquiries received by the Chamber are from college graduates or students completing their studies. There are engineers, chemists, lawyers, computer programmers, librarians, statisticians and analysts, qualified social service workers, teachers, ranchers.

Then it went on: "It has been the Chamber's experience that most of these valuable additions to the Australian work force experience great trouble in locating suitable employment—jobs where their capacities are fruitfully employed.

"Although it is no longer true to say that the self-trained Australian business leader is suspicious of the university graduate with special skills, the old school dies hard and the newcomer with the bright ideas does sometimes have to fight against conservative management that throws up barriers against change."

we care

we never "run out" on a sale!

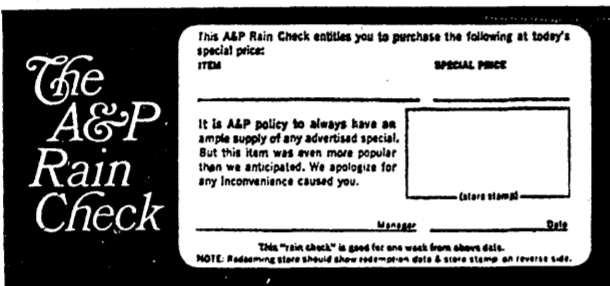

We never advertise a special sale item unless we have an ample supply.

Once in a great while, the special is more popular than we imagined.

So occasionally, we do run out of the item.

But we never "run out" on a sale.

If the item is sold out, just ask the manager for a "RAIN CHECK".

An A&P Rain Check is a certificate that entitles you to buy the item at the same special price, the following week.

We think that's the fair thing to do. We think that shows "WE CARE".

Not every store can care that much. A&P can...and does.

Shouldn't A&P be your store?
